When you work with documents on multiple computers you probably have to copy files from one device to another. Even if you have enough memory to remember all the file changes there is still a better way to apply your skills. Let Allway Sync take care of recent changes in your files. It looks for the latest version of a file in specified folders and copies it to other folder, e. g. synchronizes them. Unlike other file synchronizers that just copy file with most recent file modification time Allway Sync implements a sophisticated algorithm that does not depend on accuracy of system clock. Therefore Allway Sync is fast, safe, stable and also easy to use. All you need to do is to specify local or network folders (directories) you want to be equal and the program does everything else.
